Wabash Marketplace, Inc. Announces Details on New Downtown Men's Clothing Store: Anthony Leigh

Wabash, Ind. –Wabash Marketplace, Inc. is excited to announce that Anthony Leigh, a men's clothing store, will be opening soon in historic downtown Wabash.

In recent years, downtown Wabash has continued to grow and transform. Through economic developments, dozens of unique businesses have chosen to call downtown Wabash home, adding to the charm of our beautiful downtown. With many unique boutiques, restaurants, shops, and more, the addition of a men's clothing store will enhance the vibe even further.

“Business Recruitment to downtown Wabash is a key part of Wabash Marketplace, Inc.’s initiatives. The moment we heard of Anthony Leigh, we reached out to owners Coltyn Miller and Ryan Lynch with an invitation to tour our downtown,” said Tyler Karst, Project Coordinator for Wabash Marketplace, Inc. From the first visit, Miller and Lynch were sold on downtown Wabash. Owner Coltyn Miller said, “We are thankful Tyler reached out to us. We sensed a great community in downtown Wabash and immediately knew we wanted to expand here in addition to our current locations in Auburn and Angola.”

Opening in Mid-October, Anthony Leigh will be located at 79 W. Market St., next to Modoc's Market, the current location of Black Squirrel Toy Co. Items carried will be casual business attire and casual clothing; footwear, blazers, polos, jeans, graphic tees, button downs, socks, and accessories.

Owner Ryan Lynch said, "The goal of the stores is to place them in unique small areas to help build a sense of community in each city they are in. We are both actively involved in our communities so never feel a burden to reach out for volunteer opportunities. The store owners we have already met have been extremely welcoming, and we are so excited to join in the continued growth of Downtown Wabash." More information for their current stores can be found by visiting their Facebook page, Anthony Leigh, or website, www.anthonyleigh.com.

Tourism is in an upwards trend in Wabash County, and this will be a great addition. Whitney Millspough, Marketing Manager of Visit Wabash County said, "Visit Wabash County is excited to welcome Anthony Leigh to downtown Wabash that will not only provide a trendy, affordable option for locals as well as visitors, but will also have the opportunity to capture the attention of an untapped market in our community; the millennials. Together with Wabash Marketplace, we hope to provide support and assistance for Coltyn and Ryan in any way possible."

Stay tuned for more details on a Grand Opening.
